

Blood donation drive held at ICFAI University

SE Report

GANGTOK, March 20: A blood donation drive was conducted at the ICFAI University Sikkim campus here today.

The programme was organised by the NSS Cell of the ICFAI University Sikkim, in collaboration with the Voluntary Blood Donor Association of Sikkim, and with the support of the Sikkim Arunachal Student Union and Blood Centre – STNM Hospital, Gangtok, informs a press release.

The medical team from STNM Hospital was led by GDMO Dr. Tenzing Yutchola and comprised eight dedicated healthcare professionals who ensured the smooth and safe conduct of the camp.

The drive witnessed enthusiastic participation from both students and faculty members, reflecting a strong sense of social responsibility and community service.

A total of 28 units of blood were successfully collected during the drive. The event saw an overwhelming response, with a large number of students registering and expressing their willingness to contribute to this noble cause. Although some volunteers were unable to donate due to health constraints, their eagerness and support added to the spirit of the initiative.

The programme not only contributed to addressing the critical need for blood but also served as a platform to raise awareness about the importance of voluntary blood donation.

The NSS Cell extended its sincere gratitude to all collaborating organizations, the medical team, and every participant who contributed to the success of the event.

The ICFAI University

Sikkim continues to encourage such initiatives that instill values of compassion, service, and civic responsibility among students, reinforcing its commitment to community engagement and social welfare, the release mentions.