Governor Ganga Prasad on Monday handed away Sarvapalli Radhakrishnan Distinguished Teacher's award 2022.

A total of 27 teachers and 18 principals from different government and private schools and colleges received the award presented by the ICFAI University Sikkim today on the occasion of teacher's day.

The Governor also inaugurated the N.J. Yasasway memorial Auditorium of the ICFAI University here which was the venue for today's teacher's day event. The auditorium was built in the memory of N.J. Yasaswy the founding member of ICFAI University.

Organized by ICFAI University in collaboration with International Educators for world peace, the event also had Sikkim Legislative Assembly speaker Arun Upreti and State Education Minister Kunga Nima Lepcha, informs an IPR release.

Speaking on the occasion Governor Ganga Prasad remembered Dr. Sarvapalli Radhakrishnan, on whose birthday the Teachers day is celebrated throughout the nation. He said the day is celebrated to commemorate the contribution of Dr. Radhakrishnan's, India's first vice president and a celebrated academic, to the teaching field and to honour teachers for their contribution in shaping the life of students.

"It takes an incredible amount of dedication, knowledge and patience to teach a class full of present day students who are sharp, inquisitive and real go-getters and that type of responsibility and commitment makes these teachers real heroes", the Governor said.

He expressed that the teacher's day is celebrated to bring oneness among teachers and to encourage them to perform well for the betterment of the society as, he said, the teacher shapes the destiny of the student. He lauded the contribution of the teachers and urged all the students to follow the path guided by their teachers.

The Sikkim management of ICFAI University presented Lifetime achievement award to Governor Ganga Prasad and Sikkim Manipal University Vice chancellor Lt Gen (Dr) Rajan S Grewal.

On the occasion a Memorandum was signed between ICFAI University Sikkim and Software Technology Parks of India for collaboration in research and various facilities which shall mutually benefit the start-up community and industry stakeholders through joint activities taken by them.

STPI Official NS Siddaiah said that the joint venture will support the startups in designing and developing products and services and converting their ideas into reality.

Earlier the ICFAI University Sikkim Vice chancellor, in his welcome address said teachers play an important role in grooming and that teacher's day is the best occasion to extend sincere gratitude to all the teachers for not only teaching students but also being their true mentors and role models.
